Third "Favored List" Of Big Morgan Bank
Is Brought to Light

James Coughenour, the Republic Senator from Michigan, who is a native of Chatham, Ont., pointed out, however, that Senator Mitchell of the Electric Bond and Share was on one of the favored lists.

Whitney, defending the Morgan company's special client lists, said these were designed "to distribute the risk" of underwriting.

The list was identified by George Whitney, Morgan partner, who was called to the stand for this purpose.

WAS AT $99

He testified there was no public listing of the stock at the time it was sold to the special clients.

Previous evidence had shown, however, that the sales were recorded as of January 21, 1929, when it was listed on the Philadelphia exchange at $99. Morgan sold it at $75.

The sale was made when Woodin and McDowell were not in personal life.

Senator Le Follette, Wisconsin, Republican, recently denounced these sales in the Senate as "gratuities" from J. P. Morgan and Company.

MORGAN THERE

Resting his check on his hand at times in the packed committee room, J. P. Morgan followed the testimony closely and in silence.

There was an obvious stir in the huge hall, but he showed no sign of special notice, when at one point his check was seen to have made great profit by selling certain warrants in United Corporation for prices ranging from $40 to $47, which it had acquired for $1 each.

Whitney testified a block of 200,000 of the warrants, entitling holders to purchase common stock in the Morgan Holding company at $27.50, were sold for $8,400,000.

Partners of the Morgan firm divided

1,500,000 additional warrants held by the banking house, he said.

LATE AMBASSADOR ON LIST

Washington, May 31.—George Whitney, Morgan partner, testified in the Senate investigation yesterday afternoon that the late Joseph W. Morrow was placed on one of the firm's lists of persons given special opportunity to buy stock of J. P. Morgan and Co.

A former partner in the Morgan firm, Morrow's name was among 200 others presented at the morning session as having in 1929 bought units in the United Corporation, a utility stockholding company, at $75 for each unit, the units soon commanding a price of $99 each in the public market.

Morrow was recorded as taking 2,900 units.

Whitney testified about him in response to questions by Senator Reynolds, North Carolina Democrat.

The senator suggested Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, and John J. Rasch, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, were other "semi-public" figures on the selected lists.

Man in Custody
After Wife's Death

Associated Press

San Jose, Cal. May 31.—David A. Lamson, sales manager of the Stanford University Press, was held in the Santa Clara County jail here to-day pending further investigation of the death of his wife, Mrs. Allen Thorpe Lamson, attractive executive secretary of the university's Y.W.C.A.

No charge had been placed against Lamson, said the physician to be suffering from shock and in a semi-hysterical condition.

Holiday calm on the Stanford campus was disturbed with the discovery of the body of Mrs. Lamson, victim of a violent death, in the bathroom of the couple's home. Her head had been crushed by a terrific blow.

GANG MURDER
IN NEW YORK*Four Gunmen Fire Volley at Group of Card Players; Man Killed

Associated Press

New York, May 31.—Gunmen fled into hiding to-day after killing one man and wounding five persons.

Employing the technique of the St. Valentine's Day massacre of Chicago, four killers lined up ten men who had been playing cards, and a fifteen-year-old boy against the wall of the Castle Cafe late yesterday evening.

"We like rats," they said, "you do like us."

They poured a pistol volley into their victims and fled while the east side neighborhood screamed in panic.

Police found Charles "Buster" Donalco dead and two men severely wounded. The other three men who were shot escaped with minor hurts.

One of them was Bernard Balenstein, 15. Five of those lined up were not struck.

Curiously put, the boy before the murderer squad. He was standing outside the cafe when he saw the killers enter. As he drew near to peer in, the door was flung open.

"Come in," one of the gunmen said.

The boy entered and was lined up with the men.

"Other guards were taken around me. Several guards, covered by six convicts, joined up.

THREATENED WITH DEATH

"Underhill, the leader of the gang, said: 'We'll kill all fourteen within range of our guns, then kill you unless you do what we say.' Make that guard up there take down his gun."

"A guard on the wall was covered and commanded to throw his keys down. Then he was forced to run to the tower door, which was opened and we ascended.

"As we entered the tower, Underhill twisted the end of my wire leash around his left wrist. With his right hand he held a revolver against my side.

Mr. George New, to whose farm the three women were after their release, said the three apparently had suffered no ill effects from their nerve-wracking ride with the convicts.

"No trace of the convict car was seen this morning.

WIDE SEARCH

Acted by measures taken by Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas and Governor W. H. Murray of Oklahoma, one of the most widespread man-hunts in years was in progress to-day. The fact the bandits had reached the hilly Northeastern Oklahoma country added heavily to obstacles of the searchers.

The break from the prison, made during a holiday baseball game, was made quickly and apparently had been well planned.

The bandits, backward as they ran, severed the power lines fired a gun at the group of watching and helpless guards, wounding John Stewart, a guard, in the arm. They rushed the prison garage and fled in a penitentiary car.

HIT BY BULLET

"When he had descended the wall Bailey was struck in the leg by a shot fired from the wall," said the sheriff.

"He was helped into the rear seat of Woodson's (farm prison superintendent) car. Placing two guards one convict and myself on the running board,

OVER THE WALL

"There were six convicts in the group: W. E. Muselman, in charge of prison recreation, John Lewis, John Sherman, and I were the only guards taken aloft. A coil of rope was thrown down the outside of the wall. Underhill commanded me to slide down. He followed, the wire around my neck still fastened to his wrist.

Hyperion Winner

The race was worth £9,336 to the winner.

From a good start, Steve Donoghue, winner of six Derbys, sent Trapstone to the front and was followed by Young Lover, Coronado, Manitoba, Light Sussex and Hyperion.

At the end of the uphill journey, about one-half mile, Trapstone was still in command, but Weston had moved Hyperion into third place, while Manitoba steadily dropped behind.

As the field rounded Tattenham Corner, Hyperion charged to the front and a quarter of a mile from home had the race well in hand. King Salmon made a bid but he was not equal to the task, while Statesman closed fast to challenge King Salmon for the place. Back of Scarlet Tiger finished Trapstone and Raymond in fifth and sixth place, respectively. Corondo was last.

AIR OPERATIONS TEST AT GENEVA

Canadian Press

London, May 31.—Great Britain declines to yield to disarmament proposals that would force her to abandon aerial bombardment over land as a police measure. Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council, told the Commons yesterday replying to a series of questions asked by Rt. Hon. George Lansbury, Labor leader. Mr. Baldwin said: "The government's policy was submitted to the House last session and recently was restated by the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs (Captain R. A. Eden) at Geneva." Beyond that statement he declined to go.

But in view of the difficulties which have arisen in the Disarmament Conference over British exceptions, Mr. Lansbury pressed, would the government not reconsider its position? Would the government still adhere to its policy even if it meant failure of the conference to prohibit air bombardment altogether or wrecking the conference itself?

The British position, Mr. Baldwin returned, did not necessarily mean failure to prohibit aerial bombardment, he said could be reply to so hypothetical a question as the possibility of wrecking the conference.

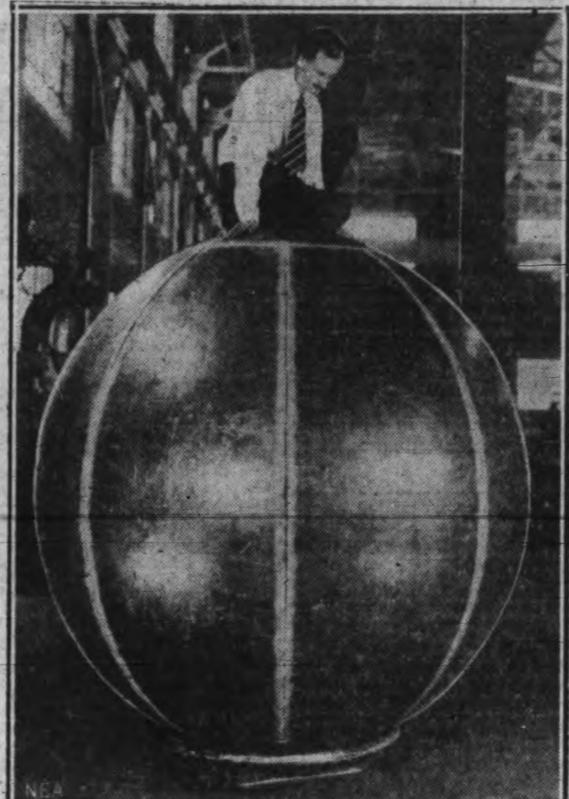

The British reservation on air bombing is now meeting strenuous opposition at Geneva.

Aid Is Provided For Farm Families

Ottawa, May 31.—Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and Colonization, yesterday stated that the British government has approved in principle the remedial legislation recently passed by the Dominion Parliament providing for concessions to settlers under the 2,000 British families settlement plan.

Canada's legislation provides concessions to enable British settlers to overtake their heavy burden of interest-bearing arrears, to give them a new incentive and more reasonable hope of acquiring ownership of their farms by paying for them through their own efforts.

BUILT FOR CHICAGO STRATOSPHERE FLIGHT

Dr. Jean F. Piccard is pictured above as he inspected the metal gondola of the balloon. It is planned to use it in an attempt to set a new stratosphere flight record about July 1, starting from the World's Fair grounds at Chicago. The sphere, made at Midland, Mich., weighs only 200 pounds. Either Dr. Piccard or his famous twin brother, Prof. Auguste Piccard, also from Belgium and holder of the greatest altitude record, is expected to go aloft, along with Lieut.-Commander T. G. W. Settle of the United States navy.

Elections May Be Held In Four Provinces

British Columbia and Nova Scotia Must Have Polling This Summer; Ontario and New Brunswick May Vote

R.C. SITUATION

Ottawa, May 31.—General elections are certain this summer in two provinces—British Columbia and Nova Scotia—but certain in no other. In Ontario, the "sovereign people" on both the west and east coasts of the Dominion will be treated to an appeal for their suffrage, with British Columbia and Nova Scotia destined to cast their votes in the near future.

Rumors that are gaining strength credit Ontario and New Brunswick with elections imminent but just as rapidly as the reports arise they are scattered with robust denial. Unlike Nova Scotia and British Columbia, the governments of Ontario and New Brunswick have not yet run their course, each having a longer span of life before venturing into the election lists.

The government now headed by Premier Gordon S. Harrington in Nova Scotia was constituted on June 1, 1928, while yet led by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, present Dominion Finance Minister. Five years ago both the Liberal and Conservative parties had men as leaders who no longer guide their destinies. Mr. Rhodes has been succeeded by Colonel Harrington, and Hon. William Chisholm by Angus L. Macdonald. Mr. Macdonald was an unsuccessful candidate in the 1930 Dominion election.

So far only the two old-line parties show indication of life in Nova Scotia, although triangular contests may be looked for chiefly in the Cabot-Breton constituencies, where the Labor element is strong and articulate.

He talked of the growing interdependence of nations, and said that "if the depression can teach us the vice of economic nationalism, then the great depression itself may prove the opening of a way to the ideal day when there will be no poverty."

The heir to the throne introduced

Robert W. Bingham, new United States ambassador to Great Britain to 250 persons. The Prince paid tribute to the "strong lead" the new United States government has taken to end the depression.

He talked of the growing interdependence of the Dominions and importance of the coming World Economic Conference, saying the degree of their success might well depend on the co-operation of the United States and Great Britain.

ONTARIO OUTLOOK

Ontario's situation is equally obscure insofar as prospects of an early election are concerned. Premier George S. Henry has indicated he will not trouble the province this year. Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., the Liberal leader, insists an appeal to the country is not far off. Whatever happens there is no doubt the province is in for a protracted campaign. London, May 31.—"Strife" is the first of John Galsworthy's plays to be revived after the author's death. The revival is due to Miss Nancy Price, of the People's National Theatre Movement. She has taken the Little Theatre of Stanely Bay and entrusted the production to Stanley Duff.

Almost a quarter-century has gone by since "Strife" was first given to the public, and for the last twenty years

its performance has been left to amate-

AT WASHINGTON MORGAN BANK INQUIRY

The United States Senate Committee investigation of the practices of J. P. Morgan and Company is in progress again, having been resumed to-day after a recess of several days. The above unusual camera studies of Mr. Morgan were made during a committee session last week. Varying emotions, from jollity to intense concentration, were registered in the facial expressions of the New York banker as he answered questions asked by Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the committee.

Australia Opposes Plan For Reduction Of Wheat Acreage

Conferees in London Told Commonwealth Needs to Export Grain

Canadian Press and Associated Press
Sydney, Australia, May 31.—Australian representatives at the London Conference on world agriculture have been instructed not to sanction the principle of restriction of wheat growing areas.

The Minister of Commerce, announcing to-day this decision of the Commonwealth government, declared Australia must maintain the level of its exports in order to insure its capacity to meet overseas obligations.

London, May 31.—The International wheat conference, which is working for limitation of world acreage so as to raise prices, held a two-hour session to-day without the work of recent meetings at Geneva.

Delegates from Canada, Australia, the United States and Argentina made statements based on the latest advice from their governments.

The "problem" of production restrictions for each country was put before experts and statisticians, who held a session under the chairmanship of Henry Morgenthau, head of the United States delegation. The next meeting of the chief delegates will be held Friday.

The scheme evolved, if any is agreed on, will be embodied in a suggestion to the World Economic Conference, which will be asked to approve it and obtain pledges of co-operation from other nations.

CANADA WELCOMES THE SCIENTISTS OF THE PACIFIC NATIONS

For a brief space Victoria becomes this week one of the chief scientific centres of the world. The leading scientists of thirty-one nations fronting on the Pacific Ocean are assembling here for the Fifth Pacific Science Congress. This high honor Victoria in particular and Canada in general, deeply appreciate. The gathering is symbolic not only of the growing importance of the Pacific region in the progress of human affairs, but of that brotherhood of scientific thought, that co-operation between all searchers after truth which knows no national boundary, and which works for a common beneficiary—the entire race.

The results of deep and arduous study in many distant places will be thoroughly revealed to the Congress in the papers which will be read by the visitors. A great part of these discussions may be unintelligible to the layman, for it is true that the triumphs of scientists are seldom appreciated outside their own ranks unless they have some immediate practical application to ordinary life. But from the scientists have come discoveries designed to alter the entire aspect of the world and the personal habits of its peoples.

The scientific attitude of mind, the insistence on finding truth at whatever cost, the willingness to forego old prejudices and follow wherever discovery leads, is probably the finest intellectual achievement of our civilization. On its spiritual side, quite obviously our civilization has fallen far behind this march of science. In that respect, perhaps, science has had too large a share in shaping the character of humanity in the last hundred years. But if the other forces of life have failed to keep abreast of their work, that is not the fault of the scientists.

Science has given the race possibilities of physical comfort, of intellectual development, of full life, which are beyond the imaginings of our grandfathers. If the race has misused these mighty gifts, and often distorted them into engines of destruction, if the means of increasing wealth have often become the cause of increasing poverty, that again, is not the fault of the scientists.

As gatherings like the Pacific Science Congress indicate, the forward surge of scientific discovery needs no stimulus besides the scientist's restless and insatiable urge to find truth. The acute problem of civilization, which underlies all its other problems, is to adjust itself to these discoveries, to keep up with the bewildering expansion of men's knowledge and capacities. This, in turn, requires a high development of another science altogether, the abused science of politics and government: Until it is perfected, until it is approached and mastered in the same spirit as other sciences, the latter can never be fully utilized and may become a positive danger.

British Columbia is peculiarly interested in all these problems because the development of its great resources demand the scientific approach. We think the distinguished visitors now assembling will find much to interest them in British Columbia's progress already along practical scientific lines—in the recovery of its minerals through processes largely devised by British Columbians, in the harnessing of its waterpowers, in the expansion of its agriculture, in the utilization of its forests. In any case, whatever may be the immediate results of the Congress, its larger effect of bringing together the best scientific minds of the Pacific countries, in friendly co-operation, must be of incalculable value in promoting the peaceful progress of this whole region.

WAR DEBT INSTALMENT DATE DRAWS NEAR

The next war debt instalment due from Great Britain to the United States will be payable on June 15. It amounts to $75,950,000. The British government has not decided what it proposes to do about it. It is under discussion to-day. Rumor has it that a section of the ministry is in favor of meeting the bill and another section is in favor of defaulting. There is no indication that President Roosevelt intends to change his policy with regard to payment. Congress expects him to see that the instalment is met when it falls due.

There are many prominent economists and political leaders in the United States who would prefer to wipe the slate clean; but there is also an influential element which vigorously objects to the transference of the liability from the debtors to the American taxpayers. There is much to be said in their behalf. Some plain talk on the subject, incidentally, was indulged in recently by Mr. Owen D. Young, the author of the Young Plan of reparations payments and a former chairman of the American section of the International Chamber of Commerce. He pointed out that his country insisted that the debts be repaid and the only practical way in which the debtors could pay was with goods. "We would not let them do that," Mr. Young recalls, "so they had to send us their gold; and they sent it until we ruined the currency and banking systems of the world, including our own. Now, having done this, we are prepared to go into hysterics on a moment's notice at the mere suggestion that the London conference may result in a scaling down, a partial or total cancellation, of some of the sums owed us. Ready to face the realities in every other field, we have persisted in being blind where the war debts are concerned—blind and, one might add, not a little dumb. We have tried to put them in a vacuum, where they could be considered by themselves in all their pristine beauty; and because of this we have got farther and farther away from contact with the hard facts of the situation."

Needless to say, such plain speaking as this was bound to produce equally plain retorts, but the opinion seems to be growing in the chief creditor country that the sooner this whole controversy is definitely settled the better it will eventually be for all concerned. One American commentator, for example, discusses Mr. Young's observations this way:

"Look back for a moment at the way in which we have treated the war debts. We have tried to insist that they bore no connection whatever to any other phase of postwar politics or economics. We have maintained stoutly that they had no relation with reparations—although any infant might know that our former allies would not pay us if Germany did not pay them. We have sworn that they had no relation with tariffs—though no reputable economist would for a moment admit that point. We used foreign loans to expand our export trade in blithe ignorance of the fact that just increased the difficulties our debtors must meet in paying us. It looks, in short, very much as though we have persistently deluded ourselves about the debts ever since the war. Perhaps it is about time that we listened to people like Mr. Young."

It is not surprising, of course, that the American taxpayer objects to the cancellation of war debts while the debtor countries continue to spend vast sums of money on armaments. France refused to pay $20,000,000 interest last December; but her naval and military budget for 1932 was approximately $500,000,000!

WHO WILL BE LEFT AT HOME TO-MORROW?

The zero hour of provincial politics has come at last. To-night three cabinet ministers will go down the line and the government will make ready to go over the top in the cold, gray dawn of to-morrow. Or so at least our Conservative friends and newspapers assure us. To-morrow, June 1, Premier Tolmie is to reorganize his cabinet, fill two vacant portfolios and prepare finally to meet the enemy.

This zero hour is made doubly trying for the embattled warriors of James Bay by the Premier's statement in his second—or was it his third?—union government manifesto that he would form a ministry of only eight, including himself. That means, if the ordinary laws of mathematics apply in a region so airy and unreal as our present provincial political realm, that still another minister must go down the line to-night with Messrs. Shelly, Lougheed and Atkins.

There were eleven ministers to start with. The Premier accepted the resignations of three, which is the parliamentary way of firing them, and then there were eight. The government had triumphantly reached that irreducible minimum proclaimed by the Premier in his second or third manifesto. The remaining ministers must have breathed easily again. But no sooner had this comfortable state of equilibrium been achieved than the mysterious stranger, Mr. Dennis, arrived here on the afternoon boat. By six o'clock the cabinet realized that it had a ninth colleague—one too many.

The zero hour has come and there is still one too many. Perhaps, indeed, if the Premier is bringing in more outsiders, there will be three or four too many. Altogether must be a very uncomfortable time in the higher spheres of statecraft, when no man knows whether he will wake up to-morrow as an adviser to the King or as one of the unemployed.

TIMID SALESMANSHIP

It seems that business has been especially bad in Wichita, Kansas, recently and the Chamber of Commerce of that city tried a novel method of finding out why. It conceived the idea that something must be wrong with the salesmanship of the stores, so it selected ten men and gave them ten dollars each to make trifling purchases of fifty cents or less, but with the instruction that beyond the initial purchase they were to buy only what the clerks might suggest until the money was exhausted.

At the end of the day the ten men returned to the headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce with $94.60 still in hand. They reported that not a single suggestion from any salesman had been made. The initial purchase of each was the only business done. One hundred dollars waiting to be spent and only $5.40 of it got into circulation. This is timid salesmanship with a vengeance, and may be of incalculable value in promoting the peaceful progress of this whole region.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

MR. ROOSEVELT'S EXAMPLE

The Chicago News

President Roosevelt declares every government employee or beneficiary, and all citizens of the Republic, are called upon to contribute to the maintenance of the nation's credit and that restoration of national prosperity. President Roosevelt has been strengthened, not weakened, by his bold economy programme. The savings he has effected thus far aggregate about $850,000,000. His pledge to balance the federal budget is to be redeemed, apparently, unless Congress enacts legislation which involves squandering with one hand what the other hand seeks to save.

LAW-ABIDING ONTARIO

The Toronto Mail and Empire

The beneficent results of the Liquor Control Act in this province are so clear that he who runs may read and be convinced. The total number of drunks convicted in 1927, the first year of the L.C.A., was 16,007. Last year the number was 8,066—little more than one-half. The cases of drunken drivers of motor cars have been reduced in number for the whole province from 822 in 1927 to 431 in 1932. The convictions for reckless driving dropped 32 per cent last year as compared with 1931, and the convictions for speeding were cut from 27,686 in 1931 to 19,606 in 1932, or 25 per cent.

"AS OTHERS SEE US."

To the Editor:—Without necessarily endorsing Mrs. Glover's appraisal of Victoria and Victorians, may I point out one or two trifles you appear to have overlooked in your editorial reply? Mrs. Glover's criticisms were for the most part directed, not at the Canadian aspects of our city, but rather at what she considered its ultra-English foibles; and, consistently enough, she contrasted its business streets, its feminine attire and its social amenities, not, as you imply, with those of English cities. Almost everything Mrs. Glover said, however, is true. Her "Escape Fever," by Geoffrey Harding, is told in a quiet dignified vein. Hardinge's wife brought down before the German prison camp at Stroben, and some five months later escaped out of it and into Holland. Only about thirty British officers made successful escapes from German prison camps during the entire period of the war.

"Sing of the Bounty," by Geoffrey Dawson, is an eminently readable book on one of the most extraordinary men who ever served in the Royal Navy. It was Capt. Bligh's chief claim to distinction that he was the victim of a famous mutiny and the hero of a heroic rescue as famous. Yet the book is only two incidents in a long and varied life at sea. He fought at the Dogger Bank; sailed with Cook; and the mutiny of the Bounty was not the only unfortunate episode in his naval career.

FINDS VOTERS NOT SO DUMB

Professor Finds Out What They Think By Making Test Political Trend of Public Mentality Revealed as Socialistic

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, May 31.—What voters were thinking about when they went to the polls last November is the subject of a unique survey and report by Edward S. Robinson, professor of psychology at Yale University.

Professor Robinson has long doubted that the public stupidity is as great as the public seems to think it is. He suggested to the National League of Women Voters last year that they get together on a study of political opinions of voters. Last fall they obtained from about 8,500 men and women in thirty-seven states their reactions to the candidates and to twenty-four typical political statements that were being used in the campaign.

The professor is still unable to assert any faith in the sort of public omniscience which has been assumed by some of the ardent worshippers of democracy. But he is reassured in his faith that "our present tendency to dismiss the public mentality as a thing of extreme simplicity is probably far from the truth."

MORE LIBERAL

The voter is becoming more liberal in his political thinking, Robinson demonstrates. Retaining some of the principles of Mr. Hoover's rugged individualism and still vague as to what socialism may be, he is nevertheless veering slightly toward socialistic doctrine. He believes now, for instance, that:

"The rich should bear a larger proportion of the burden of taxation."

"It is the duty of the federal government to place farming on an equal footing with industry."

The Hoover voters, the Roosevelt voters and the Thomas voters all cast mandates for the two propositions. They were chosen from five groups: professional; semi-professional; and managerial; clerical; skilled and semi-skilled trades; retail and minor business; and minor clerical positions; farmers; factory workers.

The five other propositions that majorities from all parties favored called for federal protection of states wishing to retain prohibition, drastic reduction of government expenditures, keeping the currency "sound at all hazards," adjustment by the farmer of his production to the law of supply and demand, and government support for only those veterans disabled by the World War. These convictions and a strong opposition to bonus payment, Robinson says, "represent the political philosophy of voters as a whole just before election."

FAVORED REPEAL

The only clear case on which the Roosevelt voters took a more decided stand than the supporters of one of the other candidates was on the plank calling for repeal of the eighteenth amendment in unqualified terms.

The Honver voters were principally

MAY ENCOUNTER LEGAL TROUBLE

Intimation that the provincial government may encounter legal difficulties in undertaking the replacing of the condemned Gorge Bridge owing to the fact that the road is not classed as an arterial highway, was given by officials this morning. It is expected, however, that the road may be considered as an unemployment relief measure.

Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, visited the bridge at the beginning of this week and, according to reports, was impressed with the need for a new bridge.

The most popular of the twenty-four statements was: "The government should support only those veterans disabled during the war."

Robinson says this indicates the popularity of Roosevelt's recent cuts in veteran expenditures.

If political war searched among the leaders of the last campaign to find one for which majority opinion was most definite," he says, "they could not have picked a safer bet than this one regarding the limitations of veterans' relief."

THE MUTUAL LIFE Assurance Company OF CANADA is noted for its SATISFIED POLICYHOLDERS

Q The following proofs of the confidence and satisfaction of Mutual Life policyholders are particularly impressive in these strenuous days when values are being tested in the light of hard experience.

1 One-third of the total NUMBER OF POLICIES issued this year has been on the lives of existing policyholders.

2 Almost one-half of the total VOLUME OF BUSINESS this year has been on the lives of existing policyholders.

3 The Mutual Life has the lowest lapse ratio for all Canada according to available reports. First position is held in six provinces, and in one only it ranks lower than second.

Q The service, solid strength and integrity behind every policy are responsible for this expression of confidence, which is fully justified by the unique record of the Mutual Life covering a period of over 60 years.

GALLANT COUNT KISSES HANDS

But Western Women Still Lack Nonchalance of Europeans Under Ordeal

Beatrice Lillie Produces Snakes and Wins Seat in Crowded Car

By JULIA BLANCHARD
New York, May 31.—Little Gray Chaplin, (Charles Chaplin's ex-wife) was the centre of attention at the St. Moritz Sky Salon opening, in white lace with black chiffon over her shoulders, escorted by three devoted admirers. She is much older looking, a sophisticated blonde, north American women are learning, but few in the St. Moritz seem to notice to accept the gallant Count Lakoszewski's hand-kissing with the absolute nonchalance that European women do.

Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken is one Social Registerite who attends every night club opening—always looking the "grand dame" part, with costly jewels and her graying blonde hair done in its pompadour-roll German coiffure of another day.

COUNTESS de Poerells designs and makes all of her own clothes. Amelia Earhart is the most popular woman after-dinner speaker about town. . . . George M. Cohan appeared in more than eighty plays. . . . Beatrice Lillie won a $50 bet that she could get a seat in a crowded subway train, by a certain time, the subterfuge not long ago. Unbeknownst to the man with whom she had the wager, she bought three little wiry green snakes and slipped them under her coat. Inside the subway train, she grabbed a strap with one hand, then leaned toward the man sitting in front of her and wriggled the three little snakes heads up into view. She immediately gave him his seat and disappeared down the train.

SHEEP FAIR AT GANGES

Capt. M. F. Macintosh Will Open Salt Spring Sheep Breeders' Exhibition

Ganges, May 31.—Capt. M. F. Macintosh, M.P.P., will open the Salt Spring Island Sheep Breeders' exhibition which will be held here Saturday.

A large number of sheep and spring lambs will be on exhibition, together with a fine display of homespun and woolen goods.

The programme for the day includes sheep judging, shearing contests, weaving demonstrations, spinning contests, dog trials, gunning competition, a softball game and many other attractions.

In connection with the weaving, a loom is being set up on the grounds and an actual demonstration will be given. The spinning competition promises to be a real competition.

The Harry Steamer, running from Ganges Bay to Salt Spring Island, has arranged for special trips to accommodate Victoria and Saanich visitors. The steamer Princess Mary will leave Vancouver at 9 o'clock, calling at Galiano, Mayne and Fender Islands en route. Returning the steamer will leave Ganges at 5:30 o'clock.

The forty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the parish and the forty-second of the laying of the foundation stone of St. Saviour's Church was celebrated Monday evening at a parochial reunion. Rev. Alan Gardiner presided. Mrs. A. P. Cody-Johnson, Mrs. Emma E. Colquhoun, Miss Mary B. O'Reilly and Frederick Tait, who were among the few identified with the creation of the parish, and Rev. Robert Connell and Rev. F. S. Stevenson, former rectors were present at the gathering.

The guests included Rev. T. H. Nutall of Victoria West Church, and Rev. P. Chapman, of St. Paul's Garrison Church, Esquimalt.

Those contributing to the musical and vocal programme were: T. Guest, B. Gwynne, R. Townsend, F. Griffiths, B. B. Temple, E. Stewart and Mrs. A. Mitchell.

At the special services to be held at St. Saviour's on Sunday the preacher will be Rev. Frank Plaskett, of St. Mary's Church, New Westminster.

Miss Dawson Thomas, Cowichan, is the guest of Mrs. E. Charlesworth.

Miss Isabel Alexander, of Vancouver, is the guest of her son and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Rush.

A number of the Cowichan Girl Guide troop came over to Ganges Saturday and spent a pleasant informal afternoon with members of the Salt Spring Island troop.

Mrs. Lee, of William Head, has returned home after a visit to her sisters, the Misses K. and W. Frampton, at Yewview Bay.

Ray Morris, of Pier Island, spent the week-end at Ganges with relatives.

Pender Island

Crowning of Miss Mavis Ferguson as queen was the feature event of the May 24 celebrations on Pender Island. All activities were conducted in the grounds at Hope Bay. About twenty children took part in the sports and maypole dance under the direction of Mrs. A. E. McLean, Mrs. F. Moore, and Mrs. H. McNeill. The sports committee, Messrs. Falconer, McLean, Auchterlonie and Bradley, had a full card of events, including junior football matches, and prizes were awarded. In the evening Hope Bay Hall was the scene of a dance.

Mrs. Nelson Foster and little daughter, Lois, of Victoria, are guests of their aunt, Mrs. J. A. Brackett, Brownie Harbor.

Mrs. Geo. Logan, of Grosvenor House, Port Vancouver, is a patient in the Lady Minto Hospital, Ganges.

Capt. Malcolm MacDonald has returned home after a year's absence, and will spend some time with his mother. Capt. Malcolm MacDonald, of Vancouver, spent a couple of days last week with his mother.

Mrs. Lamont and little daughter, Donna Rosemary, are guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dobie, Hope Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, formerly of North Vancouver, have taken up residence in their new home near Hope Bay.

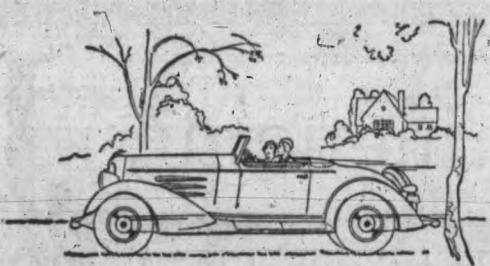

Mr. Bray, of Vancouver, arrived on Saturday to commence the erection of his new home at Browning Harbor, having purchased the former Gibson property.

Jack Stiggins is down from Powell River on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Stiggins, Port Washington.

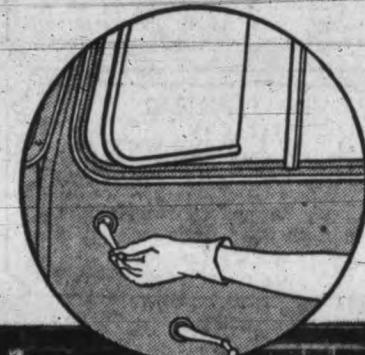

Mrs. Kerr, of Summerland, is a guest this week of Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Alexander, at the Manse.

DIES AT DUNCAN

Duncan, May 31—Mrs. Bessie Van Norman, sixty-eight, passed away at the King's Daughters Hospital Monday after a lengthy illness. She leaves a stepson, Charles, a son William, and two daughters, Mrs. J. Forrest, Sooke, and Mrs. Kenneth Vinal, Duncan. Interment will be in the family plot in the United Church cemetery, Somesone.

TRAVEL THE COOL WAY ON THE HOTTEST DAY

FISHER NO DRAFT VENTILATION SYSTEM CREATES ITS OWN BREEZES

Hot days! The sweltering calm of mid-summer! Oh, for a breeze and a chance to cool off in comfort! Fisher No Draft Ventilation system catches a refreshing breeze as you ride and literally scoops it into every corner of the car.

This remarkable ventilation system, which is built into the body, is scientifically designed to provide thoroughly comfortable ventilation every day in the year. Not an accessory or a gadget, but a real system of closed car ventilation, it overcomes the discomforts of hot-weather driving as well as it provides perfect ventilation and protection in bad weather. Moreover, Fisher No Draft Ventilation is individually controlled. One passenger may have breezes while his seat-mate has none; every occupant of the car can have ventilation to suit his own desires.

Under all driving conditions Fisher No Draft Ventilation maintains a perfect flow of air within the car—without a single annoying, harmful draft. It never allows smoke and used air to remain in the car but carries them outside instantly. And it keeps the windshield and windows clear of dangerous mist at all times—yet never lets rain or snow enter the body.

There is only one way to appreciate fully the Fisher No Draft Ventilation system. That is to try it in actual driving. Once you have experienced the pleasure and safety it affords, you will never again be satisfied with any car without this ventilation system.

And look into the exceptional quality and luxury of Fisher Bodies—the strength, resilience and durability of Fisher's hardwood-and-steel construction and "bow-and-slat" type roof and many other valuable features. Weigh carefully what your automobile dollars buy and you will invest in a General Motors car—for only General Motors cars have Bodies by Fisher.

Living Pictures Tell History of Nuns Here

Attractive Programme Opens Celebrations Commemorating Seventy-fifth Anniversary

Premier Tolmie and Bishop Murray Are Guests and Speak in Praise of Sisters

The seventy-five colorful years of the Sisters of St. Ann in British Columbia, from that June day in 1858 when the first four nuns arrived in Victoria from Montreal, until to-day, when the sisterhood boasts more than a score of modern hospitals, academies and orphanages, were viewed in miniature yesterday evening on the stage of St. Ann's Academy, by more than 300 guests, including Premier Tolmie, Bishop Murray and Mayor Leeming.

For the anniversary celebrations the academy is in full bloom and pennants decorate the driveways and gardens, and the entire front of the main building, which is the color of golden cream, is lighted up in color, the whole scheme being most effective. Several visiting nuns, including the Mother General of the Order, from head house at Lachine, near Montreal, are special guests for the week.

A series of brilliant living pictures told the story of the seven decades of the sisters in this province. Former pupils of the school attired as nuns recalled those pioneer sisters, who left their homes and dear ones and embarked on the long and adventurous voyage from Quebec to Victoria, a trip that took three months, compared with four days in our present time. The work of the nuns in their schools, hospitals and their orphanages in British Columbia and the Far North was graphically portrayed in these pictures, all of which were executed most artistically in color of costume and brilliancy of lighting.

Four of these pictures were Mrs. W. Lloyd Morgan, who was St. Anne; Mary Lou Morgan, who was Mary at the age of three; Macrina Boothe, who was Mary at the age of ten; and Margaret Gourlay, who was St. Joachim. The roles of the young nuns were taken by Mrs. R. L. Boothe, Mrs. R. B. Lerman, Sheila D. Gladwin, Betty Eila Hood, Eulalia O'Neill, Ethel Monina McKenna, Agnes Neibert, Kathleen Burns, Gladys Davies, Angela Bianco, Betty O'Leary, Kathleen Martin, Nellie Worth, Lily Conroy, Victoria Ebbs-Canavan and Jacqueline du Suzanne.

SISTERS' HISTORY
Several papers, telling the history of St. Ann's sisters in the west were read during the programme. These papers were ably handled by Mrs. Maxine McSwen of Vancouver, Mrs. Marjorie Moffatt, Miss Marjorie Graham, Mrs. Miss Flora Hamilton-Burns, Miss Nedra Coltham, R.N.; Miss Nellie Redgrave and Miss Irene Pike, R.N. Miss Ethel Hale read an ode entitled "British Columbia to St. Ann's," specially appealed for more attention to recreation for all children.

UNEMPLOYED ASSISTED
According to Mrs. Townley, national recreation has been carried on along the lines of playgrounds, swimming pools, etc., but the country had turned their attention, especially during winter months, to providing recreation and interests for the unemployed single men and women.

Tourism trade continues the one flourishing industry of dependable financial returns, in the opinion of Mrs. Wilson. In 1932 more than 14,000,000 tourists visited Canada from the United States, as well as 11,000 visitors from overseas.

National committees to-day had received the suggestions of delegates for continuation of their work. Six reports were submitted at yesterday's sessions, covering work of committees on League of Nations, housing and town planning, natural resources and industries, national recreation and other problems.

Much of the convention work will be concluded this afternoon and tomorrow, with an adjournment slated to take place Friday afternoon.

Reports included child welfare, by Miss Barbara Blackstock, Toronto; housing and town planning, by Miss Daniel S. Amies, Hamilton, Ont.; national recreation, by Mrs. J. Wilson, Vancouver; national resources and industries, by Mrs. J. Wilson, Ottawa; Canadian National Exhibition by Mrs. J. Wesley Bundy, Toronto; and League of Nations, by Miss Hilda C. Laird, Kingston, Ont.

Miss Blackstock stressed more interest in the health of the pre-school child and his general development. She appeared for more attention to recreation for all children.

DOCTOR'S NOVEL PRESCRIPTION

Associated Press

Macin, Conn., May 30.—The weary woman came to Dr. W. Williams for an examination. She spoke of long hours of household drudgery and disciplined of constant fatigue.

The doctor wrote on his prescription card, folded the leaf and handed it to her. "Now, when you get home, have this prescription filled," he said.

Later, she called a drug store, read the prescription while waiting for the telephone to answer and then hung up the receiver. The prescription read: "One cook."

Science's Contribution To Intellectual And Material Progress Of World Defined

Dr. H. M. Tory Tells Women's Canadian Club of Great Value of Scientific Research; No More Possible to Halt It Than to Stem Tides Is His Answer to Critics Who Blame Present Conditions on Science

"There are still some in this age who attribute many of the present economic conditions to science, and who suggest that we should bring the whole process of science and research to a halt for ten years. But science is aiming to collect and systematize that information about the great facts of nature which will enable us to make use of the processes of nature for our fullest benefit. Science grows out of an insatiable curiosity, and intensive search for human knowledge, and you can no more stop it than you can stop Niagara or the tides. All we scientists ask is that governments and economists shall adjust the processes of world development so as to make them harmonize with the discoveries of science in applying the great natural processes to the interests of the world and the common benefit of mankind."

So summed up Dr. H. M. Tory, president of the National Research Council of Canada in his address before the Women's Canadian Club yesterday evening. "Science is a force which cannot be stopped, and in which we set forth the advantages which have accrued to the world through the discoveries of modern science. The world to-day was reaping not only tremendous material benefit from scientific discovery, but science had engendered a great quickening of the intellectual life of the world and had made man, together with a great forward movement, the speaker claimed in his argument that science alone was computed at around fifty billion dollars."

QUICKENED INTELLECTUAL LIFE
But material results were not by any means the greatest benefit accruing to the world from science, in the opinion of Dr. Tory. The quickening of the intellectual life and the bringing together of the nations in a great force of man-power for the common benefit of mankind was an immeasurably greater outcome, although governments, like people, were apt, in times of financial stringency, to measure results by material yardsticks and to economize where results were not readily apparent.

But the fruits of modern science must be used wisely. He reminded his audience that it was only a hundred years ago that the first compound known in organic chemistry was discovered, with all its far-reaching ramifications upon modern medical science.

Scientists only asked that governments and economists adjust the processes of world development so as to make them harmonize with the discoveries of science.

COUNCIL'S CONTRIBUTION
Recalling that Germany had been one of the first nations in Europe to encourage scientific research by government support and that Great Britain had followed during the war, Dr. Tory spoke of the work which the National Research Council had done for Canada in the ten years since it was organized to study the problems relating to the natural resources of the country and the application of science in their solution. The Council had done work which had more than repaid every dollar spent in current and capital expenditure and had lifted the whole plane of scientific work in Canada out of its former dead level.

He had urged numerous young scientists who were now filling important governmental and industrial posts with distinction.

Its axiom was, "Keep beating at new problems. Don't be afraid of new problems. And don't be afraid of seeing the natural processes applied in the interests of intellectual progress and to cling to old traditions."

Mrs. A. W. McCurdy, of Malahat Park, has returned to Victoria after more than a year's visit in England and Scotland. After reaching New York in March, she spent several weeks Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, before proceeding west, and since then has also visited her daughter, Mrs. Seymour Towell, at Nanaimo.

In honor of Miss Elaine Galliher, whose marriage will take place Saturday, June 3, the Intermediates branch of the Victoria Musical Art Society will formally wind up its season with an invitation fandango dance at the New Thought Hall-to-morrow evening, when the executive, of which Miss McMicking is president, will entertain the members and their friends. Mrs. W. A. Jameson and Mrs. Walter B. McMicking, of the senior body, will act as chaperones.

PRESBYTERIAN COUNCIL MEET

W.M.S. Executive at Toronto
Told Year's Receipts Were
$198,792

Canadian Press

Toronto, May 31.—A full representation of officers and members were present when the council executive of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada opened its sessions yesterday under the chairmanship of Miss Jessie MacMurphy, president.

Mr. F. W. Abbott, president of the Alberta provincial society, conducted the devotional service which preceded the business session.

Mrs. Daniel Strachan, treasurer, in her annual statement, showed receipts from all sources for 1932 amounted to $198,792. There was a small deficit, which was being carried by the saving fund of the society.

Mr. R. H. Horne, Regina, gave a vivid account of what had been done for western relief and of the interest that had been created as a result of the work.

He has always been a good baby and never has been sick. After he refused his milk, I started cooking oatmeal with a few drops of wheats in a cup of milk, and he takes half of this in the morning and half at night. I have your leaflet on "Sweet Milk Formulas" but don't know how to go about changing. Can I stop viosterol now? It is unusual for the stools to become discolored when he eats spinach? When shall he be weaned from bottle to cup?"

OVER-SIZED FORMULA A

Here is an eighteen-pound baby who weighed seven pounds at birth. He is now getting one quart of water, one tablespoonful of cereal, two-thirds cup of syrup, and an equal amount of evaporated milk. His mother says, "He is getting so he won't take all of his milk. He is satisfied with two or three ounces at each feeding and has to be forced to take more. He eats, in addition to his bottle, cereal at 8 a.m. and at 2 p.m., one can of a can of baby vegetables, and one teaspoonful of egg yolk; then has cereal and bottle again at 6 p.m., and a bottle at 10 p.m."

When shall he be weaned from bottle to cup?"

Give sixteen ounces of evaporated milk, two-and-a-half ounces of boiled water, and one ounce of syrup. Divide into five bottles. Give the juice of one sweet orange daily at 9 a.m. If you continue your present combination of milk and cereal, reduce the amount of evaporated milk by four ounces.

By all means eliminate cod liver oil drops from your diet. The stools are usually discolored by vegetables as much of their content is roughage. Begin weaning to a cup at nine months, or earlier for orange juice and water, and complete this at one year. You may have my leaflets on "Weaning From Bottle to Cup" and "Feeding From Nine to Twelve Months" if you will enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Dance Recital To Aid Hospital Ward

At the monthly meeting of the Daughters of Pity held yesterday evening at the Nurses' Home, ten members were present, the buying committee having requested to purchase a coat of fawn.

The society is sponsoring a dance recital which is being put on by Miss Violet Fowke's pupils on June 16 at 8:30 o'clock at the Shrine Auditorium. The last meeting before the holidays to take the form of a tea, and will be held at the Hudson Bay tea room at 4 o'clock on June 17.

I.O.D.E. Reports Progress Despite Difficult Times

National Chapter Meeting in Edmonton Hears Encouraging Reports

As Peace-time Organization, Order Destined to Assist Empire-building

Edmonton, May 31—Coming as a complete surprise to all present was the statement from Mrs. C. E. Burden she would relinquish office as national president of the I.O.D.E. when she made her formal address at the opening of the thirty-third annual meeting here. Conjecture as to who will be the new president head of the order will follow if it is anticipated—Toronto woman will be chosen since the first four vice-presidents, namely, Mrs. James Ince, Mrs. J. E. Dunbar, Mrs. E. W. Nicholson and Mrs. C. H. Wilson are from that city.

1932, as well as faithfully tending the home fires," remarked the national convener making her report.

The League of Nations committee of the order has done much through financial support and education to stimulate interest. It was shown in the report of the national convener in this branch, Mrs. A. R. Tibbits of Ottawa.

MANY NEW CHAPTERS

With thirty new chapters organized throughout the Dominion and two reorganized since the last annual chapter meeting healthy growth was revealed in the report of the national organizing secretary, Mrs. G. Edgar Knechtel of Edmonton, Ontario led with twelve new primary chapters. Alberta came next with seven. British Columbia had three.

While no new chapters were formed in Saskatchewan during the year, only one chapter disbanded and membership had been greatly increased. In addition to new chapters formed in Manitoba, sixty-five new members have been enrolled. Of the four new chapters formed in New Brunswick, two were young girls groups.

ENDOWMENT FUND

Commenting on the difficulty of keeping up to date records of chapters and members, Mrs. Knechtel said "we are all looking forward to the time when the endowment fund will allow much needed visits to all the provinces and to all chapters, when it will be impossible for any organization to buy cannot organize because of lack of funds. Other organizations realize the value of officers visiting various units, and have money for this purpose."

The official organ of the society, "Echoes," has come valiantly through a difficult year. Instead of cutting the number of pages as advertising dwindled, great efforts were made to improve the quality of the magazine and with gratifying results, the national Echoes secretary, Mrs. G. B. Baby of Toronto, reported. Chapters with 100 per cent subscription have steadily mounted, especially in Ontario. Altogether 180 hundred per cent chapters were placed on the honor roll during the year.

To assist Canadian and empire manufacturers against foreign competition, the Echoes committee, following the Empire Economic Conference in Ottawa last summer, issued a seal of approval. This seal sponsors a two-fold object in that the empire products eligible for, and having the privilege of using the "seed" in advertising, will be tested annually, and must necessarily be approved of fine quality by Echoes committee.

NAVY LEAGUE

Work accomplished by the I.O.D.E. for the Canadian Navy League in past year, was reviewed in a report prepared by the national convener, Mrs. R. A. Wood of Halifax, and showing much activity by chapters in seaport centres on Atlantic and Pacific. Cots in sailors' homes are maintained, and literature, entertainment, clothing and refreshments for sailors provided.

Over 1000 men chapters are members of the League, and in Vancouver the Navy League committee is composed of a member from each chapter.

In the past year 226 chapters contributed to the work of the order in India. "Special commendation seems due the order in those provinces where the members are gifted with vision, and realize the importance of keeping alight the torch the order fired in budget and financial matters.

TOPCOATS NOW MADE SHOWERPROOF!

Just a nominal extra charge! This service must be requested.

A New Money-Saving Service!

Gentlemen: By way of a new development in dry cleaning we have introduced a new and welcome service. It consists of a process by means of which the original "body" is restored and at the same time the cloth is rendered "water-repellant"—i.e., not truly waterproof but showerproof.

Instead of absorbing rain your coat will readily shed the raindrops—as a result, to mention only one advantage, your coat will not require pressing after every shower—in all likelihood, it will serve the entire season without further pressing. There is a small additional charge for this extra service. Telephone us for details this week.

ADVERTISE IN THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES

"The Sealed Trunk"

This pair wanted to find a girl besides somebody else did, somebody who was advertising for her. The woman that thought she resembled her but hasn't been seen. Apparently she'd sent Max to come and see her and find out whether she was the one they wanted. "She's the girl, all right," Max had said. She was a "cagey little brat," he'd found out her first name. And when he asked the woman's name, he regarded her as conclusive. He wouldn't have said that wouldn't have gone through the process at all. Martin reflected, had the name under which the girl was introduced to him been that of the girl he was looking for. The first name fitted in, and the second name didn't. Rhoda White, instead of Rhoda McFarland.

His sensitive reporter's nose detected the trail of a story and mere professional instinct started him off planning how he could run it down. Talk to Babe Jennings to-night and find out how much she knows about the girl. She probably knew where she lived, anyhow. Get the news itemizing file to see how morning and find out what it was. For a guess, he'd turn out to be the C. J. whom Max and his lady friend were trying to take advantage of. And then go through all the McFarlands in the "morgue" to see if they could discover any reason why a Rhoda of that name should have changed it for some other's name. White, and disappeared.

His reporter's mind went as far as the point as easily as a well-aimed car rolls down hill. But at that point it stopped with a jolt that both shocked and astonished him. He saw her face smiling at him in friendly confidence as she'd smiled, when she'd danced away with Higgins. He knew then that there was a story. If there was one, for any reason she wanted buried, buried it should remain for all of him.

Something had happened to him. He'd never felt like that before. But now wasn't the time to go into that. He must find Rhoda and tell her what he'd overheard. Then it she needed help.

The music stopped sooner than he'd expected. It to and he got up precipitately. If he seen Babe Jennings coming along he'd have sat still for another three seconds and let her go by.

As it was she saw him and sang out to him as she approached. "Hello, Marty! What have you done with Red White?"

He could think of nothing better to do than stay where he was and answer her. "I had to let him go away with another man," he said.

"But I've got news with her and I'm going to find her now."

The thing he feared, but hadn't seen how to avoid, happened. With a mighty upheaval the big man on the other sofa got his feet and turned around. Babe gave a sort of gasp or squeak of surprise, and then waited to see what was going to happen.

"I'm going to get even with you," said Max. "Did I hear you say you were going to dance this dance with Miss White?"

"I suppose that's what you heard," Martin replied. "I said it." Then he had what he welcomed as an inspiration. "Oh, I beg your pardon," he went on, as if just awakened to his social obligations. "Miss Jennings, we let me introduce Mr. Max Lewis?"

Babe said she was delighted, and it seemed to Martin that her enthusiasm was unfeigned. Apparently Lewis thought so, too. Anyhow, neither of them objected when Martin nodded them a cheerful farewell and slipped away into the crowd.

Later, but not until an hour or two later, going over the evening on foot, as it were, he was able to surmise that his complicity over the apparent success of this manoeuvre, getting rid of both Lewis and himself with a single well-planned introduction, might have something to do with his discomfiture in the scene which followed with Rhoda. She, of course, couldn't have known how much deeper he'd plunged into her affairs while she'd been finishing out the dance with him.

"I am a bit fatigued," he said, "but I'm getting along fine with her again, I hope to find her now."

Uncle Wiggily's Blackberries

By HOWARD R. GARIS

The Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Stump School stood on the platform near her desk and looked at her animal children pupils. The kindergarten class had just sung a cute little song about a bumble bee who loved to gather honey. The wood land friends were glad to take it, although he was in money.

All of a sudden Miss Mouse said:

"Billie Wagtail, please go to the blackboard and do your number work. Let me see if you know how much 5 and 3 and 7 and 6 and 2 make when added together."

Billie, the goat boy, shuffled up to the blackboard and with a white piece of chalk marked down the numbers the Lady Mouse Teacher had told him to. But when it came to adding them up, why, Billie wasn't so hot, as Sammie Littletail said afterwards.

"Well," squeaked Miss Mouse, "how much is the sum, Billie?"

Billie answered: "Twenty."

"Wrong!" said the Teacher. Then she sent Sammie Littletail to the board, but the rabbit boy didn't do any better. He guessed nineteen and Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog, said he thought the answer ought to be twenty.

"Well," squeaked Miss Mouse, "how much is the sum, Billie?"

Billie answered: "Twenty."

Billie answered: "Twenty."

"Wrong!" said the Teacher. Then she sent Sammie Littletail to the board, but the rabbit boy didn't do any better. He guessed nineteen and Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog, said he thought the answer ought to be twenty.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

DIED

ELISH—There passed away on May 28, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Margaret Myrtle Welsh, aged eighty-three years, a native of Liff, Scotland, and a resident of Victoria since 1908. She was survived by three sons, Albert, William and James, and four daughters, Annie, Helen, Margaret, Dorothy and Elizabeth. Mrs. Welsh had made her home, while in Victoria, with her son, James E. Welsh, 1128 Fisgard Street. The remains are being kept at Thompson Funeral Home, pending funeral arrangements, which will be announced later.

WILKS—On May 28, 1933, at the residence, 3198 Balfour Avenue, John Wilks, aged eighty-four years, born in London, England. Funeral service, which will be Masonic, will be held at the Balfour Funeral Chapel, at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, after which the remains will be sent to Vancouver for cremation. No flowers, by request.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late William Dockings of 906 Craighill Road, West Hill, extend their thanks to those many friends for the kind expressions of sympathy and the floral offering sent during their recent and bereavement.

George Gershwin Does Portraits: Finds Pretty Girl Faces Hardest

Society Women Going to Work; Ten Debs Model in Store For $10 Each

By JULIA BLANCHARD

New York, May 26.—George Gershwin, King of Jazz, makes his debut as a portrait painter. He has done pen and ink sketches and oil paintings for three years. He has a fine collection of valuable French and American moderns, and at present he is more interested in his pictures than in music. He thinks if he had started painting first, he might have done even better at it than at music. Art dealers have bid for his portraits, but he will not sell any yet. He is temperamental about choosing his subjects.

"I prefer doing old men with character lines in their faces," he says. "The hardest ones to do are pretty young girls—there is nothing in their faces to hold on to. I don't do just flattering pictures. They are not caricatures, either. Just impressions. No one who has not dabbled in paint can know the right way to hold you. There are many numbers of painters and brokers who are beginning to paint, just to relax and enjoy themselves."

ROCKEFELLER "ROCKS"

John D. Rockefeller Jr. is one of America's largest collectors of fine gems, set and unset. His womenfolk seem wear any, however. His daughter, Abby, was noted as the only girl at Bryarly, ritzy New York private school, who did not have a wrist watch. Helen Macaulay wears fancy fish, turtles and tiny sea animals.

Helene Rubinstein has a large collection of dolls from all parts of the world. . . Edna St. Vincent Millay has one of the largest private collections of French and English dictionaries in the U.S.A. Reads them by the hour, thinks the titles of books without consulting encyclopedias, in some ways by the finest literature.

Phil Stong is collecting foreign first editions of his novel, "State Fair."

Francis Lederer, matinee idol, has his own hairdresser who goes to the theater regularly, to marco Francis' locks. . . Cecil Beaton distinguished himself in his new book, "The Art of Dress."

Julia Green dressing gown, designed for him by Lanvin, French dressmaker. Mrs. Reginald Fellowes, "best dressed woman in the world," sleeps with green gardenias on her pillow.

Work In Excessive Heat Apt To Cause Cramps In Muscles

Study Indicates Loss of Salt and Water From Body Is Cause; Replacing Them Brings Relief

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

High temperature is a well recognized phenomenon, manifesting itself usually by symptoms of sunstroke, heatstroke, or heat exhaustion.

Another condition commonly seen in men who work long periods of time is heat cramps. Frequently miners and firemen are unable to work because of severe muscle cramps that come on when they are working at a high temperature.

In a study of this condition made by Talbot and Michelson from the Harvard University in Boston, and by a company in the state of Nevada, it is suggested that these heat cramps are associated with a disturbance of the regulation of the body. They studied the minute chemistry of the blood and of the excretions of seven men who had heat cramps.

Obviously when working under heat, there is loss of water and salt from the body in the perspiration. The physiologist Haldane found a loss of five and a half pounds per hour in seasoned colliers at work. Another physiologist found that the weight loss in a Turkish bath was about two pounds per hour.

An extremely interesting point is that the cramps promptly disappear when large amounts of salt solution, made up to resemble the concentration of salt in the blood, are injected into the body. All of the symptoms disappear in six hours after the treatment is started.

Apparently heat cramps come on to check up on him. They believe his pictures must be an expression of his post-musical interest.

A somewhat more understandable reason is that Gasparo, one of whose canvases is a patchwork of cubes and curves called "Happy Gin," Gasparo was raised in a Capuchin monastery in Italy, and now dances at a Broadway night club, the Bal Muzette. Analysts believe his paintings reflect his feeling of revulsion for the monastic life.

Another Italian is Pino Janni, who has five paintings in the show. He was violinist before the war, but his arms were frozen while fighting in the Alps. Now he goes about decorating the walls of speakeasies in exchange for food.

ONCE FAMOUS: NOW—

—Helen West Heller started to paint when she was a farmer's wife in Illinois. Egg money bought pigments and brushes, and after a long day's work she would try to register the colors and forms of an imaginary world of Chicago critics discovered her.

She tried other mediums, and has been called the best woodcut artist in America. But she came to New York and found it completely unresponsive to her skill. Widowed in a wretched home she lived in one tiny room in Brooklyn, and hopes the hotel exhibition will sell enough of her woodcuts and paintings to allow her to return to Chicago.

The guiding spirit of this show, and of many another held hereabout in recent months, is Robert Ulrich Godsee. He was a child of joyce at twenty now, at twenty-nine, he is an art critic and author, and wears a Dino-Cundi beard to make himself look older.

A REAL SURREALIST.

There is Harrison, Knox, for one. Beloved by the young Surrealists. He is a real Surrealist, and paints things like "Medusa," a great purple face with arms sticking out of the forehead and a torso dangling from the chin. Known his best work was done when he was a child, and he has since had a good deal of success.

The inability of the human body to adjust itself satisfactorily to constant

CONNECTION TO MAIN PLANNED

NEW SCHEDULE IS PROTESTED

Oak Bay Negotiate With City to Hook-up With Water System at Leighton Road

Oak Bay municipality plans to connect up its water system this summer with the new main laid down by the city to Leighton Road under the unemployment relief scheme last year, according to advice received at the City Hall.

The city has been asked to furnish the municipality with the necessary plans and meter in order that the work may go ahead within the next few months. Before reaching a final decision on the matter, Oak Bay requests the city to supply these articles.

The water committee of the City Council will discuss the question.

In view of the fact that the whole object of water rates, as applied to relations between the city and the surrounding municipalities, is now under review, the application of Oak Bay to connect to the new main may become a matter of importance. Some members of the City Council hold the opinion that the municipality should pay an increased charge for the water then supplied, rather than through the new main. The other side of the argument is that Oak Bay would use a greater volume of water when securing a higher pressure and would pay greater water bill in any event.

Connection to the main will be of considerable benefit to householders in Oak Bay, as it will shorten the time required for general service is concerned. The main itself, laying generally in an easterly direction across the city is designed to improve the service in the area through which it passes, but the easterly terminus finishes at the Oak Bay boundary.

STAY IS SHORTENED

They pointed out that last year it was proposed to leave Victoria on the 1st and return on the 7th, and the 7th, a p.m. boat. Under the new schedule it was proposed to have the ferry leave here at 9 a.m. and return at 4 p.m.

After considering the matter for several weeks, the company recently issued its latest schedule showing that the first ferry will leave the city at 8 a.m., but will return from Port Angeles at 4 p.m. or earlier.

The matter will again be taken up with Captain Peabody.

PRESENTATIONS TO MINISTERS

Tokens of Appreciation Given to Hon. W. Atkinson and Hon. N. S. Lougheed

Presentations to the two retiring ministers of the British Columbia cabinet were made to-day before they closed their terms as members of the Dominion government.

Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture, was the recipient of an illuminated address from the Advisory Committee of British Columbia, which he was instrumental in forming as Minister of Agriculture last October. The committee is representative of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, the B.C. Department of Agriculture and the University of British Columbia. The committee is at present in session, and the presentation was made at a luncheon meeting this afternoon.

Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Lands, was the recipient of a token of appreciation from the staff of the Department of Lands.

PAY FINAL TRIBUTE

Many sorrowing friends attended the last rites yesterday for William Dockings, Rev. F. Conley conducting the service, during which the hymns "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Abide With Me" were sung. Many beautiful flowers covered the casket and hearse. The remains were

NEWS IN BRIEF

The general public is invited by the president and executive of the Pacific Science Congress to attend the meetings which will be held to-morrow in the Empress Hotel ballroom.

Dr. Ernest MacMillan, principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, will conduct examinations in Victoria, commencing June 12, at the Empress Hotel.

The Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, which at their luncheon to-day voted $1,500 for the repairing of twenty-eight bureau signs on the Pacific Coast, Payment of bills and accounts for May totaling $11,125.60 was also authorized.

Following the dinner meeting of the Men's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel to-morrow evening at 6:30 o'clock, wives of the members and the Women's Canadian Club are invited to the address by Professor J. Gray, F.R.S., of King's College, Cambridge.

The following committee of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau has been appointed to confer with directors of the local branch of the Automobile Club on the tourist folder to be issued this year: Harold Husband, president; Mayor David Leeming, G. H. Stevens, C. P. Hill and Alderman J. D. Hunter.

Fred Rawlins, of the Empire Stevedoring Company, was taken to the Jubilee Hospital this morning suffering from a fractured leg sustained in an accident while working at Ogden Point. In the morning Mr. Rawlins was taken to the hospital in the C. & C. Ambulance and was attended by Dr. Hermann Robertson.

An excellent concert by the Victoria Boys Band under the direction of George H. E. Green, was well received by a large audience at the First Baptist Church on Monday night. The following rendered solo and duet selections: Alex Warren, Gordon Dalby, David Parritt, F. Booth, B. Price, A. Stevens, D. Buckle, Wilfred Price, Robert Price, George Warren, and Robert Clarke. Vocal solos were contributed by Mrs. H. Lazenby, Mrs. A. McAlister, Miss Phyllis Edwards and a reading.

Arthur Leo Russell was to-day granted a divorce decree absolute from Margaret Baldwin Russell by Mr. Justice Finch in the Supreme Court. H. Standley was counsel for Mr. Russell and W. H. M. Haldane for the respondent.

EXPLORER EMBARKS INTO MATRIMONY

Embarking on a new "expedition"—into matrimony this time—Lincoln Ellsworth, famous United States aviator and Polar explorer, is seen here with his bride, the former Miss Mary Louise Ulmer, of Pottsville, Pa., after their wedding in The Little Church Around the Corner in New York. The couple will honeymoon in Switzerland before Ellsworth starts on a projected flight over the South Polar regions.

"Where is the castle?" Scouting cried. "Perhaps if we all run and hide, the bird will come down here. And yet, would that do any good?"

"It couldn't say a single word, 'cause after all, it's just a bird. Oh, please advise us, little elf. We'll do whatever we should."

The main thing that we want to find is where the girls are. We don't mind what trouble we are put to. Can't you think up some fine plan?"

The elf sat down and scratched his head. The Times waited till he spoke. "I told you I would help you, and I'll do the best I can."

"Now, all you lads run out of sight. I'll whistle, then, with all my might. If I'm bad, the old eagle, hears me, he will come, this way, and land on the ground. If everyone is hanging round. However, if I am alone, he'll drop right down to play."

"Don't fret. You can depend on us."

SLOW ACTION IS CRITICIZED

Lack of Sidney Ferry Service Due to Federal Government Delay

Publicity Bureau Directors Say Work Should Have Started on Slip Sooner

Criticism of the lack of action of federal authorities in not speeding up the reconstruction of the Sidney ferry slip in time to have it in use by May 1, as in former years, was voiced by directors of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau at their luncheon to-day.

The slip was practically destroyed during the gale last December and at that time requests were forwarded to the federal government to have it repaired in order that it would be ready in ample time to cater to the Sidney-Anacortes tourist business. The slip sanctioning the work was only recently passed and subsequently there is no ferry operating between these two points and the slip will not be completed until about the end of June.

It was pointed out at the luncheon that federal officials must have realized the work was necessary and the call for tenders might just as easily have been issued in January as later in the year. The delay had meant considerable loss to tourist business, it was stated.

Work is now proceeding, according to reports, but the ferry is not expected to be operating before about July 1.

Arthur Leo Russell was to-day granted a divorce decree absolute from Margaret Baldwin Russell by Mr. Justice Finch in the Supreme Court. H. Standley was counsel for Mr. Russell and W. H. M. Haldane for the respondent.

McLarnin Wants $50,000 To Defend His Newly-won Crown

Much Trading Being Seen At Willows Race Meeting

Architect Claimed and Then Returns to Former Stable

London Fight Fans Surprised At Kid Berg's Passing

THE EARLY season race meeting at the Willows has been productive of quite a bit of horse-trading via the claiming route. Seven thoroughbreds changed hands, one of them twice, in this manner during the first five days of the meet, and there are a few owners who resent losing their bang-tails on the first out after feeding them all winter. It is all part of the game, however.

In some ways, the outbreak of claiming might be regarded as a sign of better times. It means someone has money to spend on race horses, even if they are getting good horses cheap.

Architect, which incidentally has won both his starts, went back to his old stall in the Northwest Stable on Monday after winning a race for G. Lockhart, who claimed him last Friday. Lockhart got the horse for $400, won a purse, and then lost him for $500, so he pulled off a good bit of business.

S. Copithorn, Vancouver, is breaking into the racing game by the claiming route, and has picked up three fair horses already. He Sporting Club for $800, the first day, picked up Zelma M. for $400 on Friday, and paid $300 for May Upset on Monday.

After winning two starts in the silks of R. P. Knudsen, the claimer of Allerton, he turned to J. H. Ferguson for $600 on Monday. Clear Star, another consistent performer, changed hands for $400, and Star Crescent, the speedy little mare which paid off the highest price of the meet last Friday, went to new owners on Monday for $300.

London has just seen the passing of Jack (Kid) Berg as a ring idol.

To the amazement of the east end of London and thousands of his compatriots, a young Italian lightweight, Siete Locatelli, soundly whipped Berg, and placed himself in the running for a title scrap with Tony Canzoneri.

Berg's many followers complained that he had been robbed of the decision by the experienced ringmen knew better. To a man, they said that "Yiddle" Berg, even at the age of twenty-four, had been "burned up." His ring career is finished.

Many believe the Kid has packed away a tidy amount of his ring earnings, and is still a valuable boxer, plenty of intelligence, and already has had some experience in the moving picture business. His future may be under the lights and the microphone.

London first saw Berg about eight years ago, when a fifteen-year-old he boxed his way into the west end halls. He had been schooled on the classic form of Jim Driscoll—little jabbing left, nice footwork, a good right counter, and a fine sense of feinting and dodging.

He went to the United States and joined the National-Sporting-Club, pleased-to-meet-ya, nonsense knocked out of him; he developed into a tearing, non-stop, two-fisted scrapper, won fame and money. He returned to England, and had the Jewish community rally round.

In the ring he licked them all, and out of the ring he charmed them all. During the last year he has done little actual fighting. Meanwhile he did a spot of courting with an attractive young blonde and helped to make a few British quota pictures.

He called his vain "comeback" at Albert hall.

His rip-roaring style was countered by Locatelli's intensive punching. In typical Bergian style there was much flaying of arms, snorts and ruses. Whereas the Kid's punches landed on elbows or his opponent's gloves, Locatelli's counters landed with painful accuracy and stunning effectiveness on the midriff or the jaw.

Berg took it all like the brave, battles he is, but the telling up of the points was well against him. Out of ten rounds he only won two. Locatelli took six, and two were even.

So Jack Berg steps out of the resin and the roped square to matrimony and the movies. He just missed being a world champion, and showed nothing but chivalry and good sportsmanship in that missing.

Lou Gehrig, slugging first baseman of the world champion New York Yankees, prides himself on being the best deep sea fisherman in the major leagues.

In all the talk of records at which various players will be aiming during the 1933 major league seasons, it is often forgotten that no pitcher has won thirty games or more in a single season since Jim Bagby of Cleveland turned the trick thirteen years ago.

Miss Florence L. Kneibekamp, sister of the owner of the Louisville team of the American Association, is the only woman traveling secretary in baseball.

The annual Canadian National Exhibition marathon swimming contests will be held at Victoria on June 10. Men's feet at ten miles, set for Friday, August 25, has prizes of $3,000, $1,500, $700, $500, $300 and $100. The race for men is at fifteen miles and will pay $100.

Wednesday and Coast Teams to Meet in Second Game For Anscomb Trophy

Win For Former Will Mean Victory in Series; Will Play at Heywood Avenue

Soccer elevens representing the Wednesday League and the First Division of the Pacific Coast League will meet at 6 o'clock tonight at Heywood Avenue grounds in the second game of the Anscomb Cup series. Victory for the mid-week players will mean the winning of the series, while a win for the latter representatives will necessitate a third game to decide the trophy winner.

The first game in the series was won by the Wednesday players by a 4 to 1 score, and the Coast League men will be out to avenge themselves and endeavor to send it to a three-game series.

CORBETT PLEADS

Yesterday Corbett, himself, pleaded for a return bout with the kind of man he was, who, after eight rounds, threw him abruptly into the mealstrom of fistic rulership here last night, took cognizance of the request and promised the former champion a chance to regain the title. "If and when any promoter thinks we'll be a good card," Corbett allowed, "I'll be available to give him a chance at the championship before he defeated Jackie Fields and gained the title February 22 last, admitted the Fresno, Calif., southpaw played into the hands of his wily opponent from Vancouver.

USERS CUNNING

Jimmy, with the cunning of his ten years' experience against America's greatest fighters from the flyweight ranks up to his present division, invited the defendant to lead and then promoted capitalized on the first open invitation that availed itself.

In asking for another chance at the title, Corbett blamed himself for his downfall.

"I found him so easy to hit," said the rugged Italian youth, "that I was too intent on keeping on top of him. Before I knew it I was on the canvas. What happened after that I don't know."

The thing to do is start campaigning for another fight and I think Jimmy will give it to me."

SCENES WHEN McLARNIN WON WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP

McLARNIN AND FOSTER RELIED ON STRATEGY

Made Young Corbett Fight Their Way and Then Polished Him Off

Jimmy Refuses to Party After Bout and Goes Home to Say a Prayer

Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver's new welterweight champion of the boxing world, and his foxy old manager, "Pop" Foster, used strategy to whip Young Corbett, Calif., in the title bout at Los Angeles Monday night. Foster and Jimmy knew that if they were to let Corbett fight in his own plodding way, hitting and grabbing, never taking a chance with a lead, the bout would be "in the bag" for the defending champion.

The trouble started in the eighth, when Lou Gehrig, New York first sacker, smacked one over the high right field fence. Umpire "Brick" Owens ruled it a home run, but virtually the entire Washington team thought otherwise. Three bunts were thrown from the stands, and it was ten minutes before the rumpus halted.

Bill Frost, member of the sports staff of the Vancouver Province, who was at the ringside, had the following to say about the smart work of Jimmy and his manager:

"In all probability it would have gone the limit and might have been too close to warrant a decision in McLarnin's favor."

"So 'Pop' and Jimmy fell back on a bit of strategy that has figured in several other stupendous McLarnin victories."

"They decided to lead Corbett on—make him believe he was fighting a set-up and entice him to come in and force the fighting. Corbett 'bit.'

As Jimmy had pedaled before Corbett's bull-like rushes, the champion came in, more and more wide open as his evasions drove the challenger closer to the ropes.

"McLarnin ducked suddenly with Corbett coming on and out flashed a rapier-like left that found 'the button.'

"The crowd roared in amazement as Corbett sat down hard in the resin and rolled over on his side. At the count of four the champion, his eyes closed and his face wearing an expression of complete bewilderment, rose on one knee, his back supported by the ropes in a neutral corner. At nine he balanced himself precariously on both feet. Jimmy sprang across the ring. A hammer-like right landed on the outside of Corbett's jaw and the titleholder was down again.

"He struggled gamely to regain an upright posture and with the help of the ropes managed to do so. Half a dozen lets sent him back to the resin and Referee George Blake hesitated no longer, raising Jimmy's hand as king of all the world's welterweights.

WAS USED BEFORE

"It was the same strategy that won for Jimmy the hearts of New York fight followers, the first time he appeared in a Gotham ring. Sid Teris, one of the most renowned of New York's fisticuffers, had been sent in to stop the youthful McLarnin, who had put away Lou "Kid" Keenan a few weeks ago and added a couple of years to his age in order to fulfill New York boxing regulations.

"Teris was figured to win as he pleased and it suited Jimmy to have him made in. The opening wash was long in coming and a short left hook put Teris to sleep with the fight only a couple of rounds along.

"Ruby Goldstein, pride of the New York Ghetto, fell in similar manner, while Al Singer, then world's lightweight champion, went down the same way to McLarnin; forgetting defense to bring his heavy artillery into play.

PAID PENALTY

"This was no last minute scheme of Foster's and McLarnin's. Through the weeks Jimmy has been training in Oakland and Los Angeles, they having been "ribbed." Corbett and his hand-picked crew, the champion's second, hit and grab, and even run, rather than fight. The ballyhooers played it up. Corbett finally came through with a statement that McLarnin wanted slugging he would get it and there would be no backing up on his part.

"The penalty he paid for this was the loss of his world championship, just Old Connie sent Moss out there twice yesterday and the officially designated relief hurler of the Philadelphia Athletics lifted a pair of games out of the fire as neatly as you please and won from the Boston Red Sox 7 to 3 and 11 to 8.

The New York Yankees and Washington Club pattered some more themselves themselves after Lou Gehrig had struck a doubtful home run blow in the eighth inning. It helped the Yanks to win 3 to 2. There will be an official protest.

In other American League games, Detroit and St. Louis broke even. The Tigers winning the first game 8 to 6 and the Cards the second 3 to 1. Chicago beat Cleveland in the first contest and the White Sox took the nightcap 15 to 8.

St. Louis Cardinals defeated Cincinnati twice 5 to 4 and 3 to 2. The National League. Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs broke even. Brooklyn beat Chicago in the first game after Bill Swift had pitched the Pirates to a 2 to 1 win in the opener.

The New York Giants upset Brooklyn 2 to 1 in their first game, but the Dodgers took the second 3 to 0. The Phillies won from Boston 2 to 1.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Washington, May 31.—In a game enlivened by heated protests and bottle-throwing, New York Yankees yesterday handed the Senators a 3 to 2 defeat to entrench themselves more firmly at the top of the American League.

The trouble started in the eighth, when Lou Gehrig, New York first sacker, smacked one over the high right field fence. Umpire "Brick" Owens ruled it a home run, but virtually the entire Washington team thought otherwise. Three bottles were thrown from the stands, and it was ten minutes before the rumpus halted.

The race was sloppy, but the son of St. Germans splashed his way across the finish line with three lengths spare over Joseph E. Widener's Gold Way. W. S. Kilmer's Dark Winter, outsider, was third, beaten a head to the place and a length in front of the fast closing Jerry Patch.

Bowie, Md., May 31.—In a stirrup duel on a home stretch, the Anable Stables' Larranga, four-year-old gelding, held to a precarious lead and beat W. R. Coe's Osculator by a head to win the first running of the Memorial Handicap at Bowie Track yesterday if a length behind was D. A. Wood Indian, runner-up in this race.

The race, run in a steady rain, was a course fletch-deep in mud, and worth $4,270 to the winner.

Five Favorites Come Through Paying Even Money Or Less to Backers

The long odds were bundled all in one package at the Willows track yesterday, and it gave fans a big thrill as Ethel Star broke her maiden in the center for Western Canadian breeds and paid off $73.95 straight, the record price of the year. All other returns were unusually small, with four odds-on choices and one even-money favorite taking the major share of the pot.

Ethel Star, out of the Lee & Lester, uncovered a surprising burst of speed to win her heat, the third of the day. She went to the top at the first turn and led the star-studded race. Dale Showers, the favorite, was well beaten and finished out of the money. Yorkham getting the place and Jim Rogan the show.

ALTERS BUT RECOVERS
Pasty Carter was the only other favorite beaten during the day and would probably have won but ran to the outside rail on the back stretch when she was leading by six lengths in the middle gallop. She eventually stopped and shot, but was hustled by the boy and came on again to take the second slot behind Fair Allian.

The succession of short prices was started in the first by The Lone Trail, which copped his third race in a manner similar to becoming the biggest money winner of the meet. He carried top weight of 121 pounds and outlasted the six-horse field. Tuscarora took second after setting the pace and Calgary Jubilee closed fast for the show.

Warren was another standout in the meet, and with commendable ease, going to the front of the pace-making Jimmie Trinz on the bend for home. Blue Middy showed an improvement of form to get the place. FAVORITE AGAIN

After Ethel Star threw the wrench into the form pickers machinery in the third, tag, tag came about in the fourth another odds-on favorite, winning hands down in a small field. Miss Zelpha and Maghery were second and third.

Tommy Doyle packed an impost of 121 pounds to victory in the fifth without any trouble. The only other pony favored in the betting was Honey-thistle, and she folded up after being unable to get Kliaues sprang a mild surprise by getting the place, paying $7.20 in that slot.

Paved Way made every post a winner in the sixth, bearing Dr. J. B. Clark's colors home first with Sporn in the saddle. Pelaika and Chatterbox, a couple of outsiders, finished behind the Clark mare.

With only four horses running, the seventh was won by Emmett's Fair Alian when Pasty Carter faltered so badly. Sporting Vein was third.

Riding honors were split for the day with none of the boys riding more than one winner. Chidsey rode three seconds and two thirds, but failed to get any of them down in front.

Davis Cup Team Selected By U.S.

New York, May 31.—The United States Davis Cup team which defeated Mexico, Canada and Argentina in the Americas zone in the international tennis play without losing a match, yesterday was named for the Interzone final against the European winner.

The team members are Ellsworth Vines, Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn and George Lott, all veterans of at least one challenge round in France.

Vines and Allison will play singles and Lott and Van Ryn the doubles.

Frank Wykoff, former University of Michigan star, and a star member of the world's 100-yard record, has joined the faculty of the Frank Moran school for boys at Atascadero, near Los Angeles. Wykoff will do no coaching and thus will preserve his amateur standing. He will teach science.

Here's a record: During John McGraw's years as manager the New York Giants won 3,535 games and lost 2,754. At that figure, McGraw could have lost more games than he won if he managed teams that lost every game for the next five years.

Jack Picus Quinn, pitcher of the Brooklyn team, is the oldest player in the major leagues. He is forty-seven. Quinn has been with six major league clubs, the Yankees, Braves, White Sox, Red Sox, Athletics and Brooklyn.

SHIELDS BEATS C. BOUSSUS

Auteuil, France, May 31.—Margaret Scriven, Great Britain, and Jack Crawford, Australia, won the French hard court mixed doubles championship here to-day, defeating the defending titlists, Betty Nuthall and Fred Perry, Great Britain, in an all-empire final, 6-3, 6-3.

Mme. Rene Mathieu, France's leading woman player, advanced to the quarterfinals of singles with a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Rose Scutella, France.

G. P. Hughes, "winner of the doubles with Fred Perry, his English Davis Cup partner, scratched his entry in men's singles.

De Stefani, Italy, and Fred Perry, England, won third-round matches in men's singles to catch up with the field. De Stefani defeating Jacques Bruneton, French doubles ace, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2, and Perry winning from G. R. Rumet, France, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

Frank Shields, lone American entrant in the men's singles, was eliminated in the fourth round by Christion Boussois, third ranking French player. The scores were 6-3, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4.

In a third-round match V. J. Robinson, South African champion, defeated the French youngster, Andre Merlin, 8-6, 6-2, 10-8.

SHIELDS BEATS C. BOUSSUS

Frank Shields, lone American entrant in the men's singles, was eliminated in the fourth round by Christion Boussois, third ranking French player.

Onesime P. Perner, "new champion," he said, "What about it? Will he give Corbett a re-match?" Foster was caught himself.

Jack Doyle played ball with us, he said, "and we'll play ball with him. We'll fight any time the money is in there."

"Think what you like about 'Pop' Foster, but hand it to the old boy for helping to keep Jimmy clean and unspotted."

"I doubt if the entire history of the fight game since the 'Marquis of Queensberry fabricated his rules' will show a more dramatical or simple statement of the newchampion to tormentors who wanted him to party when he mentioned bravely in that meeting room: 'I am going home to pray.' What he did there was a braver act than he has yet committed in any ring."

All is set for the Indian celebration and baseball game at the Beacon Hill Park, concluding the week's stock this evening. Preliminary to the game there will be an Indian parade, and the first ball pitched will be heralded by the dramatic arrival from over the hill of a redskin brave on a pinto pony, shouting the war cry of the Esquimalt Indians.

The entire Esquimalt reservation is to be at Beacon Hill for the show, and it's expected that a large crowd of Victorians will be on hand.

The Indian nine is being opposed by the Grays, with Rebel Mowat pitching for the latter, and a closely contested game is in order. The Boys' Band will be in attendance.

Dorothy Dix

Believes
People Are Better Wedded
Than Single

"If Only a Few Are Ideally Happy in Marriage, Not Many Are Actively Miserable," Says Dorothy Dix, and the Great Majority of Married People Are Far Happier Married Than They Would Be Single"

HOW MANY marriages are successes? How many married people do you know who are really happy and contented in their marriages? A London professor, who has been studying this subject, concludes that one-quarter of the married people are ideally happy; a second quarter more happy than unhappy; a third quarter more unhappy than happy, and the fourth quarter are absolutely miserable.

If this classification is correct, then the percentage of domestic felicity must be higher in England than it is with us. For certainly not a fourth of the marriages in this country are ideally happy. Most of us could count up on one hand, and still have a finger or two to spare, all of the husbands and wives that we know who have kept alive love's young dream in their hearts, who find a never-ending joy in each other's society, and who are so congenial that they have literally become two souls with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one.

Many men and women accept marriage with philosophy and good sportsmanship and make the best of their bargain. They regard their husbands and wives as their best friends and are faithful and loyal and do their duty to each other. They are too much ladies and gentlemen to quarrel and bicker and they treat each other as courteously as they would distinguish strangers.

These marriages are regarded as unusually successful ones. Husband and wife probably esteem themselves happy, but they have none of the wild rapture that those know who are ideally mated and who have no life apart from each other.

Very often one or the other of the high contracting parties in a marriage is perfectly happy in it, while the other finds it cinders, ashes and dust. There are many wives, for instance, who spend thirty or forty years in utter bliss, worshipping at the feet of husbands who are bored to tears at their devotion, and who find marriages the dullest and least inspiring of all human experiences. And sometimes, of course, the shoe is on the other foot and it is the man who finds happiness in loving a woman, and the woman who merely submits to being loved. But it is rare, indeed, that both the husband and wife are entirely contented with marriage and find in it a paradise on earth.

But if there are not many ideally happy marriages, neither at the other end of the scale are there many marriages that are utterly miserable. This is the very good reason that in this enlightened modern age we have intelligence enough to realize that there is no virtue in unnecessarily wearing the martyr's crown, and so when a man and woman find out that they make each other wretched and bring out all that is worst in each other's natures, they simply part and end their sufferings.

Of course, there are plenty of married couples who live together like the Kilkenny cats and who would not think they had come to the end of a perfect day unless it had been full of fights and irritations and recriminations. We all know plenty of misunderstood husbands and many wives whose theme song that they never weary of crooning is their husbands' brutality, but these people are not really unhappy. They enjoy the perpetual scrimmage in which they live.

There remains, then, the vast mass of married couples who miss ecstasy on one hand and misery on the other, whose marriages are neither brilliant successes nor utter failures, who do business on mighty little capital of sentiment or romance, yet who never quite go into bankruptcy.

The common, or garden, variety of marriage, you know, the kind we see all about us on every side. Marriages in which the little flare of passion that drew a couple together has burned out, leaving only a handful of cold ashes on the hearth. Marriages in which the husband and wife have no tastes nor thoughts in common and in which neither makes any effort to adjust himself or herself to the other. Marriages in which neither uses any tact or forbearance in dealing with the other, and in which neither can make a remark without starting something. Marriages in which the daily spat is part of the daily ritual.

These ungenial husbands and wives, dragging the ball and chain of matrimony that clangs at every movement, would seem to prove beyond all argument that the great majority of marriages are failures, but this is not true. Perhaps these ill-mated couples believe themselves to be wretched, but this also is a mistake. In reality, they are happier than they know, as is sufficiently proved by the fact that when death or the divorce court breaks their bonds and sets them free they are never satisfied until they rivet on the matrimonial fetters again.

For even a marriage that is not wholly satisfactory seems to be on the happy side, as the English say. It gives to men and women something that fills in life as nothing else does—a permanent human relationship, some one who belongs to us, who depends upon us, who needs our service, some one to whom we are vital. It gives us some one to love and cherish in its happiest estate, and, even in its worst, it gives us the comfort of having some one with whom we can quarrel and before whom we can let ourselves go and be as, mean as we like.

Above all, marriage gives us children with their never-ending interest, and it gives us a home. For no bachelor can turn a house into a home though he hangs a tidy on every chair, nor can any old mind perform the trick, though she has a chimney that smokes and a parrot that swears and a cat that stays out all night. It takes a husband and wife to perform that miracle. It is because of these consolation prizes that even those get who fail to draw the winning number in the matrimonial lottery that makes it worth while.

able, and the great majority of married people are far happier married than they would be single. Hence it is worth trying once, anyway.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Magician's Trying Moment

An amusing event in the life of Howard Thurston was part of performance he gave at the White House while Calvin Coolidge was president.

"You've got the wrong watch!"

The magic trick was to be "smashed," even a great magician could not restore it. Before the performance Mr. Thurston obtained an imitation of the watch which President Coolidge was known to carry.

The president lent his watch, and the magician said, "Now, let it be plainly seen that I do not touch the watch!"

An assistant held forth a small black bag and the watch was dropped into it.

before being laid on a table in front of Mr. Thurston.

Up went the hammer in the magician's right hand, but before it was brought down, someone caught his arm. It was his assistant, and he whispered: "You've got the wrong watch!"

Through a slip, the assistant had failed to replace the president's watch with the imitation. By a hair's breadth, the good watch had been saved!

No whisper had been too loud, and his secret was heard by those who were watching. It was time for them to laugh at the magician's expense; but he was quick to see the way out.

"Jay says I have the wrong watch."
